And so pretty Nellie Boyer a Utah girl is to play, Rella "piglet wife of Shiblon" in the play "Colanton." Three years ago Miss Boyer went to New York to develop her voice and study with a view to returning to Utah to teach elocution in one of our prominent educational institutions.
Her teachers and all associated with her were so impressed with her dramatic talents that they persuaded her to adopt the stage as a profession. Miss Boyer has held some very good engagements in the east in "Brother Officers" with Mattie Kean and others and now she has been selected not because she chanced to be a Utah girl, but because she was specially fitted to play the part of Rella in the Book of Mormon play to be presented here on New Year's night.

Grand Canyon Distances.

The dimensions of the Grand canyon have been the subject of much discussion ever since it was first explored. It may therefore be of interest to give some figures taken from his new survey. The average width from rim to rim does not exceed ten miles throughout the Kaibab, or widest section of the canyon, and it frequently narrows down two miles. The river does not occupy the middle of the gigantic tough, but flows at a distance varying between one and three miles from the south side. Practically all of the magnificently sculptured pinnacles and mesas (the so-called temples) lies north of the river and at distances of from five to seven miles from the viewpoints usually visited by tourists.
The depth of the Grand canyon in one way has been overstated, in another overstated. Measured from the south rim the total depth is considerably less than a mile. From the rim at the Bright Angel hotel, where the altitude is 6966 feet above sea-level, to the highwater mark of the river at the foot of the tourist rail, the drop is 4430 feet. The highest point on the south rim at the Grand View hotel is
river.

From the north side, however, the drop to the water-level averages considerably over a mile and in many places even exceeds 6000 feet. It may be stated that the north rim is from 1000 to 12000 feet higher than the south thus producing that high, even skyline so striking in all views obtainable by the tourist. The figures here given are based on spirit-levels run in connection with the map work. They are the first that have ever been run to the bottom chasm, and the high standard of accuracy maintained throughout will cause them to be considered authoritative and final.

Notice to Improve Sidewalks.

"You are hereby notified that your sidewalk requires improving and must be so improved within five days of the date of this notice, in accordance with the Ordinance of Logan City."

The above is a copy of the official notice sent by the street supervisor of this city to those who should repair their sidewalks. Supervisor Samuel Holt states there is practically no attention given by some to this notice.
To all such, we wish to say that you are not only creating additional expense for yourselves, but jeopardizing the interests of our city as a whole.
Some of our worthy citizens have been asking for a free delivery mail service but we will never secure this until our sidewalks are put in proper shape. We understand there is a government law that is explicit upon this point. It should be the duty of every citizen to repair their sidewalks just as soon as the notice is received. Furthermore it is unjust for a part of the walks to be improved and the other parts to remain untouched. We trust that the supervisor will be exacting on this matter and compel each and every one to repair their walks in compliance with the law.

prepared.

And now it is Russia's turn to be visited by earthquakes. Andijan a city in the Caspian sea region has been destroyed. 5000 people are reported to have been killed. The state treasury containing five million roubles is in the ruins. The water has disappeared from the wells and a general subsidence of the site of the town is feared. Something seems to be out of joint with the old world this year. It has been a long time since there has been such disaster from volcanoes and earthquakes as the world has witnessed in the last few months. The destruction of St. Pierre Martinique was the most peculiar and most awful of its kind ever recorded in history. We had hardly gotten over the Martineque disaster, when news came of the eruption of Mount Santa Maria in Guatemala and the destruction of nearly all of the coffee growing district of the country. Since then there has been other disturbances in different quarters and now comes Russia for her share of the trouble. No one knows where the merciless hand of death may fall next.

HOW DIAMONDS MAY EXPLODE.

Cases in Which Only Ordinary Degree of Heat is Necessary.

It has long been known that diamonds, especially the class known as "rose diamonds," are likely to explode if subjected only to what would seem a very ordinary degree of heat, such as strong rays from the sun, etc. It is now believed that the explosions are the result of the rapid expansion of certain volatile liquids inclosed in cavities near the center of these precious stones. A great many diamonds, even though cut, mounted and worn as gems of perfection, are still in an unfulfilled condition—that is, the liquid drop from which the stone is being formed has not as yet deposited all of its "pure crystals of carbon." These movable drops may occasionally be seen with the naked eye.

When this is the case, a strong microscope will give the drop the appearance of a bubble in the fluid of a carpenter's level. It is also highly probable that besides the liquid mentioned these cavities may contain gases under great tension. This being the case, one may readily comprehend how a very small amount of heat would cause the liquid and gas to expand to such a degree that the diamond would give way with all the characteristics of a miniature explosion.

Concerning Names.

Apropos of the eternal domestic question, an English woman relates this experience: "I engaged a maid named Pearl, and as I simply could not ask a Pearl to fill the coal scuttle —happy woman to have one to fill!— or to holystone the doorstep, I said:
'I would rather call you by some other name. Have you a second one?' 'Yes,' replied the damsel, brightly, 'my second name is Opal.' So I stuck to Pearl. At one time I all but engaged a maid named Hermione, but upon asking her, 'Have you a black dress, white caps and aprons?' she replied, acidly: 'Yes, I have; but I'm not going to wear 'em. Ma didn't christen me 'Ermione for to wear a livery.'"

"Tim" Sullivan is Temperate.

"Tim" Sullivan, who has come to the front so strongly in New York city politics of late, has been a saloon-keeper for many years, but it is not of record that anyone ever saw him take a drink. In Albany at one time he was taken seriously ill and a physician ordered him to take a stimulant.
"Don't you think I can pull through without whiskey?" asked Tim. "You might," was the reply, "but you are so frightfully run down that I don't think you ought to risk it." Tim reflected for a minute and said: "I'll take the chance. D—n if I'll take a drink." And he didn't.

Hades Located Once More.

"Tickets," said the conductor of a north-bound excursion train out of Kansas City to a man who had been imbibing too freely a few nights ago.
"Ain't got no ticket," said the inebriate, half aroused from his slumber.
"Where are you going?" asked the conductor as he shook him.
"Goin' t' hell," was the drowsy reply.

"All right," said the conductor cheerfully. "We're due there at 9:30 o'clock. Give me sixty cents and get off the train when the brakeman calls
